BY TELEPHONE.

The were sharp words that morning, and not at all creditable to the young members of the family.

Glenn held out his cup and saucer, both of which had been duly painted and baked, until they looked duly antique—held them out across the short way of the table to his sister.

'Another sip of coffee, if you please, Helly,' he said. 'And see here, Helly, don't look at the sugar you put in it.'

'What are you talking about?' demanded his sister, testily. She was suspicious of some covert unpleasantness in the quiet words. 'What do you mean? Why shouldn't I look at the sugar?'

'Because,' said the non-committal Glenn.

'Because what?' Helly asked, with some aspertity. 'Why don't you tell me? Why shouldn't I look at your sugar?'

'Because you might change it into something sour.'

'What a rich joke!' she said, turning up her nose, with all her other features pinched. 'You just the same didn't get up at all this morning. It's nearly eleven o'clock. And now I have to sit here and pour your coffee, when I promised the girls that I'd help decorate the hall for the festival.'

'Why didn't you tell me this sooner?' Glenn said deliberately sipping his coffee.

'What good would forty tellings have done?' Helly snapped. 'I should have had to wait and get your coffee-all the same. You would have gone on with your morning napping. Mamma just makes a baby of you! She pets you till you can't sit up. If I'm not up at family breakfast, I have to take just anything I can find about the pantry, while you can sleep till eleven, and get up to fresh coffee and hot quail and waffles, and everything nice, and I have to stay and watch you eat, you great baby! Mamma won't let me stir out of this house till you are breakfasted. You tyrannize over me through mamma.'

She paused, but when Glenn made no reply, continued, 'I wouldn't mind it if you worked at night, like railroad men and telegraph boys and night editors and doctors. But you don't do a lick of work, night or day. You just sit up with that girl of yours, I know.'

Glenn looked at her in a solemn way, but said nothing.

'I wish you were going to get married to her right away,' Helly went on. 'But I'd pity your wife!'

As Glenn was leisurely folding his napkin, their cousin Betty, entered, in a rushing way, crying out:

'Is this the way you help decorate the hall? You promised to come for me by nine o'clock. I've waited and waited and waited. Sister Ann's been out to the gate forty times to see if you were coming, and she's been to the east window twice forty times. It's a fact. I've just haunted that window, so that mother couldn't see to sew, because I was in her light all the time, and she scolded me about it. And all our folks got vexed at me, and called me a fidget, and it's all on your account, Helly, and I think it's a shame for you'—

'I think it's a shame for you to chatter at this rate!' interrupted the irritated Helly. Betty's talked teased her like pin-pricking on an already nettled surface. 'You always were a rattle-box. You can talk longer without saying anything than any one I ever knew.'

At this Betty's face flushed in sudden resentment.

'Come, Helly, you're carrying things too far,' said Glen. 'Don't let her rude speeches hurt you, Betty.'

'I don't mean to let them hurt me. I always consider the source from which a thing comes,' answered Betty, pouting at Helly and smiling at Glenn. 'I'll go to the hall, and tell the girls that Helly is too cross for any use in the world; that she'd wither the flowers if she were to try to help us make wreaths. Come on Glenn! You are going my way.'

She hooked her arm in his, and off they started, chatting and laughing as if there wasn't any teased Helly to care for. Their nonchalant way made Helly madder. Beside, Betty should not have the last word.

'I am glad you are going,' Helly muttered, 'and I hope you'll never come here again.'

Betty paused and turned. Her face was hot and flushed; her eyes bright. 'I shall take care not to come back until you ask me to come.

'Then you'll never come again,' Helly said quickly, her temper rising every moment.

'Why, Helly!' Glenn remonstrated. 'You forget yourself.'

'No, I do not forget myself,' she quickly interposed.

'Then I owe something that I'll never pay,' Helly retorted, with promptness. 'But I do not owe her an apology. She owes me an apology.'

'I'm sure I've nothing to apologize for,' Betty said, tossing her head. 'The idea of my apologizing, when she has been saying such rude things! Come along, Glenn!'

Helly heard the front door close on them, but kept her seat at the table for some minutes; sat there breathing hard, her heart swollen, her lips tight, her nostrils widened and trembling.

Just then Helly's aunt dropped in, a dear good soul to whom Helly confided everything. To her Helly told her story.

'Apologize to her indeed! said Helly 'I won't do it! And if she waits for me to invite her, she'll never enter this house again. It's horrid in Glenn to tease and worry me till he gets me angry, and then tell me to apologize for not being sweet. It's insulting. And now I suppose that he's gone off to the mercantile library to read some novel, leaving me to clear the table where he's been dallying. And he took Betty's part against me! Betty, with her chatter, is simply horrid! Chattered like a magpie, and then went prancing off with Glenn, instead of helping me clear the table, so that I could go along with her to the hall. She's as selfish as she can be! But I'm rid of her, that's one good thing! She isn't ever coming here again till I invite her. I suppose her father and mother will lay all the blame on me, for they think Betty is perfectly perfect. On their account, I'm sorry about the trouble, for uncle and aunt have always made a pet of me, because I'm auntie's namesake, I suppose. I shall have to see Betty when I go there, even if she shouldn't come here any more. Very likely, though, they won't want me to come I'm out with Betty. It will be dreadfully lonesome not to have Betty's to run to, and to have uncle and aunt cold and distant to me. And I'm so used to having Betty fly in and out at all hours that I don't know how I can ever get along without it. We've always done everything together. And I know that mamma will think I'm to blame; she always does when Betty and I have a spat, and I guess it's about so, for mamma's judgement is generally correct; and I'm spunky, and I don't control my temper, and I just let my anger get the better of me. I believe Betty means what she says. I know she does. She means not to come till I invite her. But I'll not invite her. I said I wouldn't, and I won't, if she never comes! I'll show her that I can be as set as she is.'

Feeling somewhat braced by this confession, Helly proceeded to clear away Glenn's breakfast table. But there was a cold, heavy spot in her throat.

'I suppose I can stand it if Betty does stop coming here,' she went on saying. 'I don't know either how I can. I'd give everything I own if she'd come running in this minute. But I'm not going to break my word. I shall not invite her. I think she's cruel to say such a dreadful thing. Oh, dear! dear! dear!'

Having by this time got the table cleared, and having liberty to cry, Helly did cry, dropping into a chair and hugging its back.

'Oh! Oh! Oh! Oh! I don't believe I can ever stand it!' she said. 'And I know that Betty means it; she'll never come here again unless I invite her without eating my words and swallowing them right down.

'I suppose I ought to eat them and be glad of the chance, even if they choke me, for I didn't really mean them. I spoke them when I was in anger. People oughtn't to speak when they're angry, and if they do they ought to take back everything they say, for they hardly ever say anything they can stand by. I wish my lips had a spring-lock that would lock when I get angry. Yes, I ought to take it all back; I ought to, but oh! oh! oh!'

She was crying aloud when the telephone rang. It was a very interesting thing—this new arrangement in their house, just put in the day before, and a summons from it was sure to start Helly to her feet. She patted one eye with her wadded up handkerchief, then the other, and hastened to get the message.

'Who is it?' she asked.

'A penitent,' was the reply.

Helly's heart gave a strong spring. 'Who? What penitent?' she asked, hardly able to keep the eagerness out of her voice.

'One who behaved very badly toward you this morning,' said the telephone.

'It's Bett! Oh, it's Betty!' Helly in joy whispered to her heart. Her face was radiant; her lips were parted in smiles, as she asked: 'What do you wish to say?'

'I wish to ask your pardon for my behavior this morning. I am to blame for your crossness. Telephone back my pardon, dear.'

Helly could hardly stand still as she put her eager lips to the mouth-piece and said, in a jubilant tone: 'I forgive you, ten thousand times, you blessed old sweet! And won't you forgive me once, you precious? I've been crying ever since you went away mad at me.'

'Poor dear!' was the reply, 'I wasn't mad at you at all.'

'And If,' Helly replied, 'I was a particle mad at you, I've got all over it, and was so sorry for my unkind words that I could have cried my eyes out, and did, almost.'

'Well,' said the telephone, 'bathe your eyes and come down to the hall, and I'll go home with you.'

'And stay to dinner,' amended Helly, all in a twitter that she was to have Betty again in the house, and that without first giving the invitation.

'Of course I'll stay to dinner, replied the tele phone.

'You're the sweetest thing in the world!' said Helly, quivering with delight.

'You're another!' was the reply. 'Come along to the hall!'

In fifteen minutes Helly was down town. As she entered the hall, Glenn came down to the aisle to meet her. 'You look happy as a queen,' he said, recalling the mood in which he had left her.

'I feel as happy as a queen,' she replied, buoyantly; 'Betty and I have made up.'

'I am glad to hear that,' said Glenn, 'for Betty was very much hurt this morning. She said, most decidedly, that she never would make up with you, unless you made the first advances.'

'And yet she made the first advances.' Helly said, with triumph. 'It was splendid in her, and just as nice as could be.'

At this point, a lady called Glenn to assist in putting up a cross of flowers. Helly hastened over to Betty who at that moment happened to be sitting a little apart, weaving a wreath. She did not lift her head, even when Helly stood close alongside.

'Dear Betty!' said her cousin, slipping into a seat beside the wreath, 'it was just the sweetest thing that ever was for you to make up, and to offer to go home with me without waiting for me to invite you. I think it was grand in you—so much nicer than to stick to a silly promise made in anger.

'Why!' Betty began.

Helly went on, eagerly, without noticing the interruption. 'But I invite you now, with all my heart, not only to stay to dinner, but to spend the afternoon, and stay all night and all next week and all next year and forever and forever!'

'But,' said Bettsy, 'I don't know'—

'You showed what lots of sense you have by not laying up my foolish words,' Helly went on; 'but honor bright! Betty would you have given up if you couldn't have done it by telephone?'

'By telephone!' said Betty, her face full of question. 'What are you talking about? I can't understand you. What do you mean?'

'Why, I mean this: wasn't it easier to make your confession by telephone, and ask my forgiveness by telephone, than it would have been standing face to face with me? Wouldn't you say that it would be easier, Glenn?' she continued, as he came up.

'I haven't made any confession, or asked your forgiveness by telephone, or in any other way,' Betty declared.

'What!' cried Helly, 'you haven't confessed by telephone! Who did, then? Somebody did!'

Glenn was smiling with a comprehension of the situation. 'I was the penitent,' he explained.

'Was that you, Glenn?' Helly said, her face sobering at the revelation. 'The voice didn't sound at all like yours.'

'Well, as to that, I suppose a person uses a higher pitch of voice than natural in speaking by telephone. Beside, you haven't heard my telephone tones enough to be familiar with them.'

'So you hadn't made any advances?' Helly said to Betty.

'Not an advance,' Betty laughed.

'And I've gone and invited you to my house to stay forever!' Helly said.

'I'm so glad I don't know what to do, for I was wishing to make up. And though I didn't ask your forgiveness by telephone, I have asked it by this note, which I meant to send to you by Glenn.' Betty drew a scrap of paper from her pocket, and handed it to Helly, saying: 'My bond to keep the peace with you.'—Youth's Companion.

It was Freddy's first experience with soda water. Drinking his glass with perhaps undue eagerness he was aware of a tingling sensation in his nostrils. 'How do you like it?' inquired his mother, who had stood treat. Freddy thought a moment, wrinkling his nose as he did so, and then observed: 'It tastes like your foots was asleep.'

The Good Old Times.

In olden times many pious indiyiduals considered it a good work to set apart part of their worldly wealth for keeping the members of the congregation from sleeping during divine service. On the seventeenth of April, 1725, John Rudge bequeathed to the parish of Trysull, in Shropshire, twenty shillings a year, that a poor man might be employed to go about the church during the sermon and keep the people awake. A bequest of Richard Doyery, of Farmcote, dated 1659, had in view the payment of eight shillings in the church at Clavery, Shropshire, for a similar purpose. At Acton church, in Chesire, about thirty years ago, one of the church-wardens used to go round in the church, during service, with a huge wand in his hand, and if any of the congregation were asleep, they were instantly awakened by a tap on the head. At Dunchurch, in Warwickshire, a similar custom existed. A person bearing a stout wand, shaped like a hay fork at the end, stepped stealthily up and down the nave and aisles, and whenever he saw an individual asleep, he, touched him so effectually that the spell was broken—this being sometimes done by fitting the fork to the nape of the neck. A more playful method is said to have been used in another church, where the beadle went round the edifice during service carrying a long staff, at one end of which was a fox's brush, and at the other a knob. With the former he gently tickled the faces of the female sleepers, while on the heads of their male compeers he bestowed with the knob a sensible rap.

Why the Organ was Locked.

The other day a household was made proud and happy by the introduction of a cabinet organ. The mother could play a little, and as there was a "popular collection of music" included in the purchase, she lost no time in getting every note and stop into practice. The organ groaned and wheezed and complained with the most astonishing of music, night and day, day and night for a week. Then one morning there was a knock at the door, and a little girl from the next house shrilly said:

'Please, marm, mother wants to know if you won't lend her your music book?'

This was a surprising request, inasmuch as the woman next door was known to be organless. After gasping once or twice the amateur organist asked:

'What does she want of it?'

The child hadn't been loaded for this question, so she straightforwardly replied:

'I don't know, I'm sure, only I heard mother tell father that if she had hold of the book for a day or two mebbe somebody could get a rest.'

The woman softly shut the door in the little girl's face, and went and carefully locked the cabinet organ with a brass key.

Music's Soothing Power.

A minister named M. C—— had a circuit in Southern Indiana. The horse he rode was a spirited animal, and would not let a blacksmith shoe him. The preacher was a great revivalist and singer of revival songs. A smith in the county seat, the centre of the circuit, learning that the preacher's horse would not be shod, meeting the divine one day, said:

'If you'll bring that horse to my shop to-morrow, and follow my instructions, I'll shoe him all around, and it won't cost you a cent.'

Accordingly the preacher was on time at the smith's shop with his refractory steed, and after the animal had been divested of saddle, blankets, and all but the bridle, the smith said:

'Now, hold your horse by the rein, close to the bridle bit, and sing one of your liveliest camp-meeting songs, and when that is ended strike up another, and keep on singing until I finish shoeing the horse.'

The preacher obeyed, and, to the astonishment of all, the animal was passive until the work was completed.

As the blacksmith clinched the last nail he dropped the animals feet, exclaiming:

'I knew you could sing religion into that horse.'

In Piedmont, Ga., there is a forty-cent man. If he hires any one he only pays forty cents per day; if he hires himself to anyone he only asks forty cents per day; if he makes a bill or an offer for anything, it is only forty cents; if he swaps horses, cows, or anything he either asks or pays forty cents difference.

WHAT IS WEALTH?

An Important Question Viewed from a Philosophic Standpoint.

Wealth cannot be any mere sum of money. Money has no settled value. In one place, among certain conditions you can get for a mere trifle what you cannot buy with a thousand pounds somewhere else. What will purchase pure air and clear sky in November? Millionaires cry out for them in vain. Yet some poor woman, say in Shetland, who never sees money, but exchanges her knitting work for her trifle of tea and cloth, can get the bracing wind and the bright sky for nothing. We all know how seriously this consideration should enter into our estimate of the real improvement to be looked for in any change of our place or prospects. What better off are we in going somewhere to earn double wages if all the commodities of life there cost three times as much as where we are now? People rush off to the capital cities to "better" themselves by earning a few shillings more per week or a few hundred more per year, as the case may be. They generally find that the things they must have absorb all the apparent surplus, while many things which they had before, and ought to have, they have to resign altogether.

Wealth does not consist of possession of any kind. Take an illustration: A man is wrecked on a deserted island; the ship runs aground, and he finds himself the owner of bags of bullion and precious stones, of rare books and rich fabrics. But he can get no fresh water. Presently he dies of thirst—a poorer man than the beggar who wins a humble meal by sweeping a doorstep or weeding a garden. Indeed there is no poverty so terrible as the possession of every thing except what we want. The Persian poet, Sadi, has a story on this point. He says:

'I saw an Arab sitting in a circle of jewelers of Basrah, and relating as follows: Once on a time, having missed my way in the desert and having no provisions left, I gave myself up for lost, when I happened to find a bag full of pearls. I shall never forget the relish and delight that I felt on supposing it to be fried wheat, nor the bitterness and despair which I suffered on discovering that the bag contained pearls.'

Still less does wealth consist in mere accumulation; we really do not have what we do not use. A miser had a store of buried gold, over which he used secretly to gloat. A thief stole it away and a wise man strove to comfort the miser by persuading him to bury some oyster shells in its place and to visit them and chuckle over them, as he had done over the gold.

Now let us turn to what wealth is in the highest sense. Wealth is the satisfaction of those needs of human life which, if unsatisfied, check its harmonious development. No man can be wealthy till he finds out the limits of his needs, for "want is a growing giant whom the coat of Have was never large enough to cover." So we cannot find out what wealth is till we find out what these needs are.

Our bodily needs are pure air, good water, wholesome food, sufficient clothing and shelter, labor and rest. Our mental needs are the education of our senses, some leisure and some intellectual nourishment, either from books or society. Our spiritual needs are love and duty.—I. F. Mayo, in Sunday at Home.

Not Surprising.

Madame Bonaparte in her younger days once attended a state dinner, and was taken to the table by Lord Dudas. He had already received some sorts of her sarcastic speeches, and in a not very pleasant mood asked her whether she had read Mrs. Trollope's book on America. She had. 'Well, Madam,' said the Englishman, what do you think of her pronouncing all Americans vulgarians?' 'I am not surprised at that,' answered sprightly 'Betsey Bonapart.' 'Were the Americans the descendants of the Indians or the Esquimaux, I should be astonished; but being the direct descendants of the English, it would be very strange if they were not vulgarians.' There was no more heard from Lord Dundas that evening.

Looking for a Seat.

The London Christian World has the following furnished it by a correspondent. Possibly the incident may serve to set some who live on this side of the Atlantic thinking:

A workingman came to live in London, having obtained work of a permanent kind. From his youth he had been accustomed to attend a place of worship. Not yet a Christian, he still loved a house of prayer and resolved not to neglect it. Accordingly, on the first Sunday morning he went off in search of a place of worship, and, having seen one with open doors, he went in, and as no one was about, he took a seat in one of the pews. Just as the service began a pew-opener told him he could not sit where he was, and did so in such a manner that he left the building in disgust. After a Sunday or two he ventured into another sanctuary, and the same thing happened. An interval of abstention followed, and then for a third time he went within the sacred precincts, and, alas! a third time he was turned out of his sitting. For twenty years he ceased to attend any place of worship, and then a curious thing came to pass.

It was on this wise: His child attended the Sunday-school of a popular preacher, and what she said made him resolve to try for a seat once more.

In time we see the craggy drops,
The craggy stones made soft;
The slowest snail in time we see
Doth creep and climb aloft.

And he, after twenty years, would try again. This was what happened. He entered the beautiful chapel, and to my knowledge the chapel stewards there are alert, polite, resourceful men, one of them remarkably so. Well, for a moment he was absent from his post, and the poor man sat down in the end seats—no pew doors on them—and in the seat of a very dantankerous person! The chapel steward, glancing along the aisle, saw the poor man had poached on a very strictly preserved seat, but he resolved not to disturb him. No, he watched for the owner of that sitting, arrested his steps in his gentle way, begged him not to disturb the poor wayfarer, and managed to pilot him into another seat. It was a great feat of Christian diplomacy, and had its reward. That poor wayfaring man is now a member of the church, and I heard the happy chapel steward tell the story.

Keeping Ice in the South.

The ordinary Virginia ice-house consists of a conical excavation in the ground, say from sixteen to twenty feet deep, the same width at the top, narrowing down to six feet at the bottom. Here a barrel-shaped hole is dug for drainage; above this a floor of rails is laid, and the cone above is lined with pine poles.

When I moved from the North to my farm here, and remembered the ice-houses there, filled with thick ice nicely sawed, closely packed, and surrounded with a compact lining of sawdust, I looked at this hole in the ground with some disfavor; but as it was the only ice-house to be had, I was compelled to use it. Winter came, with ice from two to three inches thick, and no use for a saw; so, under the direction of "Uncle Sam," an intelligent negro, we broke the ice on the pond, drew it ashore, filled an ox-cart (for there was no sleighing) dumped it into the ice-house, and continued to dump until the house was full, and then covered the ice with straw. The ice kept better than I had expected, but not so well as in northern ice-houses. The conical shape of the pit kept the ice in a compact body, as when it settled it was necessarily pressed into a solid mass. I found, however, that the ice melted at the sides faster than was desirable, and I concluded that the heat rising from the earth was more to be dreaded than that from the air above. Next year, instead of cleaning out my ice-house, I left the straw that was put on top of the ice at the bottom, putting the ice on top, and of course covering the ice with fresh straw. This practice proved so satisfactory that it was continued ever since, and it is now ten years or more since I saw the bottom of the house, and the ice keeps much better than formerly.—GEO. CLEDON, in the American Agriculturist for October.

An Ill Wind.

It is estimated that the ten thousand saloons of New York city take in $220,000 per day, or $75,000,000 per year. This seems a great waste of money, but it should be remembered that these saloons are a great help to many trades and professions which would fall to a very low ebb of prosperity without the extraneous aid thus rendered them. The doctors and undertakers have great reason to be grateful to the saloon keeper, and without him, pray how could our criminal courts be carried on at a profit, or what would become of the legal profession? One should look on both sides of a thing before condemning it.—Cottage Hearth.

THE Democratic Congressional Conference had its final meeting at Lock Haven on Monday morning and it resulted in the nomination of G. P. K Hall, of Elk County, the last ballot standing, Hall ten votes, Reed, of Mifflin county, eight. Ex-Senator Wallace's name was withdrawn at his own request.

GOVERNOR Pattison is spoken of as a candidate for congress in the eighteenth congressional district. Should he accept such a nomination, which is doubtful, his election would be more than probable and he would certainly fill a seat in congress with credit to himself and to the advantage of his constituents.

THE nomination of J. C. Meyer for District Attorney on the democratic ticket gives such general satisfaction that it is safe to say he will receive the vote of every democrat as well as of many republicans. Mr. Meyer is a young lawyer of unquestionable character and ability and has a clean political record. Being a native of staid old Aaronsburg he is known to most of our readers from boyhood up and as far as we know this end of the county is willing to give him their full support at the ballots. Let the rest of the county do likewise and vote for Meyer.

PROHIBITION advocates seem to become more numerous day by day and the party devoted to this cause has ceased to be an insignificant handful of people. They opened the canvass in earnest on Saturday evening, when Hon. Charles S. Wolfe addressed an immense crowd at the Academy of Music in Philadelphia. When reading the reports of this gathering it appears that the prohibitionists expect to push their campaign with considerable aggressiveness and vim. Several of the other candidates on the prohibition ticket delivered addresses and all were received with great enthusiasm. The meeting was quiet, brass bands, clubs and torches being absent, but it is said to have been a very sober and earnest assembly.

THE Knights of Labor assembled in their tenth annual convention at Richmond, Va., on Monday. Governor Lee delivered a stirring address of welcome, to which General Master Workman Powderly made an able and powerful response. The convention is attended by about 1000 delegates from all parts of the country. On Tuesday Mr. Powderly addressed the Knights on the great strike in the southwest, on the eight hour law and on the labor of children. He says that the child of the poor man should have an opportunity to acquire a good common school education which is only possible by prohibiting the employment of children under 15 years of age in workshops, mines and factories.

GOVERNOR Pattison proposes to tackle the Anthracite Coal combination, an organization composed of the principal railroad and coal companies, which of late had several meetings and then and there made restrictions to the production of coal and advanced the price of that useful article. The Governor thinks that it is about time that this arrogant "do-as-you-please" business of the coal monopolies be stopped and that the market and individual firesides should be protected from further advances and impositions. He has directed Attorney General Cassidy to investigate whether such action of the coal pool is not contrary to the state laws. Governor Pattison is known to be a man of pure motives and in this case his aim is to right a great public wrong and the people will naturally take sides with him. The proceedings when once instituted will be of vast importance and interest.

The Rousing Democratic Rally at Bellefonte.

Pursuant to the call the democracy of Centre county flocked to Bellefonte last evening to attend a demonstration which was simply immense in size and enthusiasm, notwithstanding the fact that the notice was rather short and the people had but very little time to get ready. Bellefonte had on its festive garb and there was a profuse display of banners, bunting, flags, mottoes, and the windows of many of Bellefonte's private resinences and public buildings were illuminated. The court house yard had a speaker's stand erected in its center and large portraits of Gov. Black were conspicuous everywhere. Many people had arrived in town during the day so that when the trains came in in the eyening Bellefonte was already well filled. The Penns Valley train, which got there at 6 o'clock brought two bands and about 150 people and the Buffalo Run train which came in later swelled the crowd by about 500.

About at 7 o'clock the court house bell rang out the signal for the meeting and soon the 5 or 6 bands which had been parading up and down town marched to the diamond where a liberal display of fireworks was kept up. The dense mass of people followed and in less time than it takes to write this the court room was packed to its fullest capacity, while the yard below was one compact body of men who were ready to hear the speeches on the outside.

The meeting up-stairs was opened by J. L. Spangler, Esq., who made a motion for organization, and nominated Hon. A. G. Curtin as president, and a number of gentlemen for vice-presidents and secretaries. Gov. Curtin took the chair and the floor and was greeted with roaring applause. All who ever heard the old Governor make a political speech know how telling and well-directed his words are and on this occasion he opened his remarks by a strong endorsement of Gov. Black's letter of acceptance, calling it a square, open and direct statement of the real issues at hand and advising all to read it. He also laid special force on the fact that the "tariff" has nothing to do with this campaign and should be left where it belongs—at Washington. He interspersed his remarks by several fitting anecdotes and finally paid a strong eulogy to Candidate Black and introduced that gentleman with the words, "Now come up here, Governor."

When Lieut. Gov. Black stepped on the platform there went up a roaring cheer which made the very walls tremble. Mr. Black bowed his thanks and stated that he had not come to Bellefonte to make a political speech but merely to get acquainted with the people. He said that he had been shaking hands with Centre county democrats so much since he got to town in the morning that his arm really ached but that there was no ache in his heart. As far as the state issues were concerned he had given a full and clear expression of his opinions in his letter of acceptance, which is published and cast abroad all over the state, a written pledge of his official course should he be elected governor. And should he fail to do his duty as state executive the people will have his letter to hold him to account. Gov. Black cut his remarks short, but brief as they were they gave his hearers the impression that he is every inch of a gentleman, a statesman and a most popular and fine-looking candidate, who has "Victory" written upon his very brow. It could also be plainly seen that he forthwith won the love and confidence of the people by his straightforwardness and speech.

At this point Gov. Curtin again spoke a few minutes and then introduced Mr. B. F. Meyers, of Harrisburg, as the next speaker. That gentleman treated on the issues of this campaign at length. He expressed the opinion that whenever the Republican party harped on the tariff in a campaign of this kind it is a sure sign that it had severe colic spasms. He also spoke of a disease that the cattle are subjected to at times, called "Wolf in the tail," and thought that this was precisely what ailed our Republican friends.

While the aforenamed speakers addressed the crowd upstairs, the nominee for Auditor General, Wm. J. Brennen, spoke on the open stand in the court house yard. We could not be at both places and consequently did not catch that speech, but judging from the repeated outbursts of applause he fully succeeded in satisfying his vast audience. He was followed by J. B. Nead, Esq., of Harrisburg and later by Gov. Curtin, who had come down stairs to see whether he could be of any assistance there.

At 15 minutes before 10 the meetings adjourned, and the crowd which we estimated anywhere between three and four thousand dispersed. All told it was a gala day for Bellefonte and a feast for Centre county's democracy. If the unbounded enthusiasm and marked earnestness of the democracy assembled last night is any sign at all of success we may say that Hon. C. F. Black will be elected governor on the 2nd of November and that by a good majority.

A Republican Senator on Black.

Senator James W. Lee, late of Venango, now of McKean county, says:

"With regard to the head of the Democratic ticket, Chauncey F. Black, I know him to be an able, upright man, and one of the most genial, pleasant men of my acquaintance."

Labor Takes a Hand.

The coal miners have taken a hand in politics in the way of trying to ascertain how all the candidates for State offices and for the Legislature stand in regard to labor legislation. To this end circulars have been prepared, and are now being sent out from the office of John Costello, President of the Miners' Union, on Fifth avenue, Pittsburg. The questions are as follows:

"Will you be for or against cottage hospitals?"

"Are you in favor of a State Mine School for bituminous miners?"

"How do you stand in regard to the actions of the coal and iron police?"

"Are you in favor of two weeks' pay?"

"Will you use your endeavors to secure an appropriation for the Labor Bureau?"

Cantegorical replies to all the questions are asked. The circular states that any objection from a candidate to any of the questions is to be considered a direct manifestation of hostility to the cause of labor.

Buckalew on the State Ticket.

Hon. Charles R. Buckalew's remarks before the conference that nominated him for Congress were in excellent taste. After thanking the conference for harmonious action he said:

"We are united in this district as the party is in the great and powerful Commonwealth. From this conference I shall go to take my part in the canvass for the excellent State Ticket nominated at Harrisburg. For this cause and the cause of Democracy, I ask your earnest, sincere and active work. By united effort we shall redeem Pennsylvania from the shameful vote of 1884 for the man from Maine. To you, gentlemen, I have no pledge to make. You require none. I do not desire to go to Congress to draw the salary attached to the office, because I can make more money in the practice of my profession; nor for the honor of the position, because I have served in the Upper House of Congress; but for the useful work in the matter of legislation to which I have, to some extent, been trained. I desire to aid and assist the great man, President Cleveland, in the work which he has so courageously set out to accomplish, and to assist in establishing the Democracy in a position that shall be enduring. Thanking you again, gentlemen, I enter upon the political task before me."

Unmitigated and Inexcusable.

From the Trades Journal, Pittsburg, Ind.

Here is a diagram of one of the checks used by the Bellefonte Iron and Nail Company, limited, and is given as a sample. There are checks issued for larger amounts to employes of the firm:

We do not care what a man's politics may be, if he is a candidate and is engaged in a business in which the laborer is despoiled of his honest earning, we believe that it should be made known. About this "pluck me" store traffic there is not a mitigating and excusable feature. It is a scheme by which men are systematically or indirectly forced to assign or leave their earnings to pay for goods purchased, which in many cases are inferior in quality and often sold at extravagant prices. The evils of which workingmen complain so much must be fought at the ballot-box, and party should be forgotten where principal is at stake. If we can pursue such a course we will win the respect and attention of the parties which have promised many reforms, but always forgot to keep their pledges when placed in power.

The Return of Prosperity.

The Democratic State platform of Pennsylvania says "the administration of President Cleveland has given confidence to the business interests of the country." The following dispatch from New York, printed in the Commercial Gazette of Pittsburg, a Radical Republican newspaper, confirms this declaration.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The long period of depression in business seems now to be giving way to one of prosperity. Merchants and general business men agree that the prospects of the fall trade are very bright. There is no boom, but a steady, healthy growth. Every one sees indications of better times. It is the universal opinion in commercial and financial circles that not only is the present condition of business better than it has been for a number of years past, but that the future is of greater promise than for a long time.

The bustle and activity in the dry goods district is apparent to all who visit that part of the city. That trade is generally the first to feel the good times. Big jobbing and commission houses are lighted up at night, and the sidewalks are lumbered with bales and boxes. Far into the night men pack goods for shipment. The streets in the dry goods district are lined at night with trucks piled high with merchandise and covered with tarpaulins, ready to be started at daybreak for the steamer wharves and railroad shipping offices.

Confidence has been restored among investors, and new enterprises are being promoted in Wall street. The banking institutions are encouraged and holders of railroad securities are delighted by the increased earnings of the lines from freight, which clearly shows that goods are being transported everywhere in large quantities. Iron has advanced in price in the face of the largest production ever known. This prosperity is no sudden thing; it has been coming on gradually, and the country is now in a condition to make the most of it. Prices are good and there is activity everywhere, and what more can we ask? Confidence is fast returning, and while people are inclined to be cautious and somewhat conservative, there is enough of confidence to give hopes of brighter prospects.

Reports from the wood trade indicate a most encouraging outlook for the season's business.

Miscellaneous News.

Another Mexican Outrage.

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 1.—Two Mexican policemen to-day pursued a native, whom they wanted to arrest, across the Rio Grande, into the United States, and a little beyond the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe depot they came up with him, and being both armed with rifles they fired at him, wounding him seriously. They then seized the wounded man and dragged him back to Mexican Territory, fording the river to do so. Great indignation is expressed here over this wanton outrage.

Heavy Snow in Michigan.

SHEBOYGAN, Mich., October 1.—A heavy snow storm prevailed here for a short time this morning, covering the ground with snow. It has snowed hard at interals, but the snow soon disappeared.

Horses Stung by Hornets.

PUNXUTAWNEY, Pa., Oct. 1.—The other day George Bennett, of Canoe township, left for his home. When he reached the iron bridge he discovered that he had lost the lever of his wagon brake, so he tied his horses to an ancient walnut tree and went back to look for it. During his absence an army of hornets attacked the team in flank and rear and stung them nearly to death. The poor beasts, unable to break loose, laid down and rolled in agony. Bennett, seeing the awful plight of the tortured animals, muffled his face and cut them loose. The horses were stung so badly they could scarcely stand.

A Sudden Death at Milton.

MILTON, Pa., Oct. 3.—Mr. Israel Scott, foreman at the car works and a prominent citizen, was found dead in his bed yesterday morning at 5 o'clock. It is thought heart disease caused his death.

Increased Pensions Under Democratic Administrations.

The following statement furnished by the Pension Bureau shows the number of pensioners on the rolls of the bureau who are affected by the recent act of Congress granting increased pensions for certain disabilities, and the increase per month in each case:

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENTS

EXECUTOR'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE:—The undersigned, executors of the estate of Joseph Gramley, deceased, will sell at public sale on the premises, 2½ miles east of Rebersburg, on THURSDAY, OCTOBER 14th, 1886, at 1 o'clock, p. m., the following described real estate:

All that certain tract of land, situate as aforesaid in Miles Twp., Centre Co. Pa., bounded on the east by lands of Daniel and Jefferson Royer, on the south by lands of Daniel Royer, on the west by lands of Jacob Shultz and Adam Bair and on the north by land of Jacob Shultz, containing 145 ACRES. Thereon erected a DWELLING HOUSE, NEW BANK BARN, 45 x 100 ft., hog pen, wash house and other necessary outbuildings, all in good repair. Good water runs in pipes to the house and cellar and to the barn Also two orchards of trees bearing choice fruit on the premises.

This valuable farm is in good state of cultivation, lies in one of the best localities in the county, convenient to four churches, and only about six miles from Coburn station. The main road cuts the farm in two making it very suitable for a division, with an orchard and a piece of timberland on each side. About 20 acres are covered with Oak and Pine timber and there is a steam saw mill only about 20 rods distant. This tract can be easily cleared and is excellent for farming purposes.

TERMS OF SALE: Ten per cent. of one-third of the purchase money to be paid on day of sale, one third, less ten per cent, on or before April 1st, 1887, one third on the 1st of April 1888, and the remaining one third to stay in the farm as a dower, the interest of which is to be paid annually to the widow of Joseph Gramley, deceased. Deferred payments to bear interest and to be secured by bond and mortgage on the premises.

For further information address
J. A. GRAMLEY, Rebersburg, Pa.,
J. J. GRAMLEY, Hublersburg, Pa.,
Executors.

ALSO at the same time and place there will be sold a certain tract of land, containing TEN ACRES, of which 2½ acres are cleared an 7½ acres in heavy oak timber. Said tract is seperated from the timberland of above farm, from the Main road to Eisenbuth's track and on the west by Jonathan Auman.

Terms made known on day of sale.
J. A. GRAMLEY.

EXECUTOR'S NOTICE.—Letters testamentary having been granted to the undersigned, executor of the last will and testament of Israel Vonada, deceased, late of Haines township, Centre Co., Pa., all persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment and those having claims against it to present them duly authenticated for settlement, on Saturday, Oct. 9th, at the late residence of decedent.

—On Tuesday, the 28th of September, a sad accident occurred at Lemont. Mrs. Stone stepped across the street to a neighbor's house leaving a one-year-old child in the house where there was also a tub of wash water. The child fell in the water and before help arrived was drowned.—Daily News.

—Mrs. J. F. Harter and daughters left for Altoona last week to pay a week's visit to her parents residing at that place. Her husband followed on Tuesday morning. Dr. Harter, during his absence will also attend the District convention of the M. E. church, convening at Holidaysburg, Blair Co., the latter part of this week.

—Candidates Shaffer and Meyer, were down from Bellefonte on Monday and Tuesday to look over the political field. They called at this office, and we noticed the usual campaign smile on their faces. Both are staunch democrats who stand high in public favor and who will be elected by good majorities.

—On Saturday, October 30th, inst., H. A. Mingle, Esq., of Aaronsburg, executor of the estate of Mrs. Elizabeth Corman, late of Haines township, deceased, will sell the real estate of said decedent at Orphans' Court Sale. The property consists of a lot of ground with a dwelling house and outbuildings thereon erected.

—State Superintendent of Public Instruction, E. E. Higbee, has issued a circular to superintendents, teachers and school directors, appointing Thursday, Oct. 28th as School Arbor Day, to be observed generally by the schools of the state. The scholars are to be encouraged to plant trees, shrubbery and vines and also to collect seeds and stones of all kinds, and plant the same.

—Mrs. Anna M. Weaver went to Philadelphia on Monday morning for the purpose of laying in her fall and winter millinery stock. She would respectfully notify her many patrons that her goods will be especialy desirable for their beauty, elegance and cheapness. Upon her return she will be prepared to furnish work in the latest styles and in good taste. Do not fail to call at her place on Penn St.

—Our Towanda Boot takes the lead. Decidedly the best boot ever brought to town. Just the thing for lumber and laboring men. Call and see at Kauffman's store, Millheim.

—The articles of agreement between J. K. Crawford, the knitting factory man and the stockholders are now signed, sealed and delivered and building operations will begin forthwith.

—To those of our readers who expect to take in Forepaugh's show at Bellefonte next Tuesday we would say that Em'l Brown's hotel on Bishop street is one of the best places to stop at. Landlord Brown always makes his guests as comfortable as possible.

—Jonathan Sanders, of Penn township, is probably one of the oldest and most consistent democrats living in this county. He has voted the democratic ticket for three score years and expects to cast his ballot this fall for Black. That is what we call solid Democracy.

—James F. Keller, the teacher of the grammar school, wishes to give notice that his school will not open until next Monday, Oct. 11. The primary school under M. C. Gephart and the North street school under D. G. Smith opened last Monday morning with a large attendance.

—We wish to call the attention of our patrons to the fact that we just received a lot of new jobtype, of the latest and most beautiful designs, and that the JOURNAL job office is consequently prepared to turn out superior work now. Do not fail to give us a trial when in need of anything in that line.

Most Excellent.

J. J. Atkins, Chief of Police, Knoxville, Tenn., writes: "My family and I are beneficiaries of your most excellent medicine, Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption; having found it to be all that you claim for it, desire to testify to its virtue. My friends to whom I have recommended it, praise it at every opportunity." Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is guaranteed to cure Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup and every affection of Throat, Chest and Lungs.
Trial Bottle Free at J. Eisenhuth's Drug Store. Large Size $1.00.

—Jacob Shaffer, of Penn Hall, who is a regular subscriber of the JOURNAL for years, gave us a pleasant business call on last Saturday. Mr. Shafer is a agreeable company and a gentleman of the old school, which means strict integrity in all business transactions. We hope he will call often.

BOUND TO SELL.—Our splendid stock of Ladies' Cloths. All shades of Moravian Tricots—the latest out. Ladies should by no means miss this opportunity to get themselves an elegant outfit for winter.

—"The editor of the Millheim Journal should read more intelligently," says last week's Centre County Times. It would take the intelligence of a Socrates to decipher what the editor of the Times means by this sharp little squib of his. Please express yourself a little plainer, Brother Ulrich and don't make a fellow break his head over such mysterious sentences.

—The central part of town presents a pleasing scene of life and activity at present. Several masons are at work on the new stone crossings and a gang of men, under the superintendency of Street Commissioner Sankey, are engaged in macadamizing Main street. That section of the borough receives sufficient attention to put it in first-class shape for the winter.

A FAMILY BLESSING.—Simmons Liver Regulator—the favorite home remedy—is entirely vegetable, and is the best family medicine that is compounded. No error to be feared in administering, no injury from exposure after taking, no loss of time. It is the best preventive medicine, and safe to take, no matter what the sickness may prove to be, and in any ordinary disease will effect a speedy cure.

—Musser & Smith, the hardwaremen, had quite a flitting last week. They moved their goods to their new and attractive quarters and are now about fixed and settled for business. The only objection we find to the new arrangement is that it is the wrong corner to turn to the post office. There is an irresistible tendency to strike for the old corner and it will take a while to get used to the new place.

—A large number of persons from this town, as well as the surrounding country attended the Democratic mass meeting at Bellefonte last evening. The low fare of $1.00 for the round trip was a great inducement to go and the unusual liberality of the Railroad company deserves special comment. The Millheim band also took passage for Bellefonte and while there were introduced to Gov. Black and the boys had each a shake of the governor's hand.

—It is beyond dispute that Kauffman's store on Main street is the Clothing Depot of this section of country. Their new stock of Ready made Clothing comprises the latest and most practicable and is low-priced throughout. In this line they carry all styles of Overcoats, Heavy Weight Vests and Coats, for Suits boys and men, and in fact anything to meet the wants of the public. Gent's Cloths for winter suits a specialty.

—OCTOBER is a good month for merchants to examine their stock of Dr. Kessler's Celebrated English Cough Medicine and include a winter's supply in their next order. The people have found out by experience that it can be relied on in all cases of croup, whooping cough, colds, and lung troubles of any nature, and will have it. A good article draws trade while worthless preparations drive it away. It should be a source of satisfaction to a dealer as well, to know he is giving good honest value for money received. Money refunded to dissatisfied purchasers.

THIS WEEK'S DEATH RECORD.—Centre Hall lost an esteemed lady by the death of Mrs. D. F. Luse, which occurred on last Sunday evening. Though the lady had been ailing for some time her death was rather unexpected and her bereaved husband is the subject of that community's sympathy.

ANOTHER VICTIM.—Annie, the oldest daughter of J. C. Snook, living on Jacob Sankey's farm in Penn township, died of typhoid fever on Tuesday night. The young lady was only 20 years of age and was the pride of her parents, who feel this stroke of sorrow intensely. Funeral will take place this (Thursday) forenoon when the remains will be taken to Logansville for burial.

DEATH OF A FORMER COUNTY OFFICER.—On Thursday night, Sept. 30th, ex-sheriff L. W. Munson, departed this life at his residence in Philipsburg. Deceased was a prominent democrat and served the county in the office of sheriff from 1876 to 1878, during which time he gained the favor and esteem of the public by his pleasant and considerate official demeanor. He was greatly liked at his home and his death created sincere regret all through the county.

—Mr. Elias Kreamer, of near Logansville, Clinton county, the father of Mrs. W. P. Catherman, of this place, died on Friday morning after a protracted sickness. The funeral took place on Sunday. Mr. Kreamer was known by many of our readers as an industrious and well to do farmer, a kind husband and indulgent father. He was held in high esteem by his neighbors and friends, who sincerely sympathize with the surviving widow and children in this their affliction. He reached a good old age.

—Howard Harter, the son of Sam. Harter, residing near the George's Valley church, died of typhoid fever on Sunday and was buried in the Cross Road cemetery yesterday forenoon, Rev. Fisher of Centre Hall conducting the services. The young and aggrieved wife who survives he husband is a daughter of Jacob Breon, of Penn township. Deceased was in the very prime of manhood with a hopeful future before him. He leaves one child and its sorrowing mother to think of the serious passage "In the midst of life we are in death." His age was 28 years, 6 months and 5 days.

—DRUGGISTS all report a rapid and steadily increasing demand for McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powder. There is no secret or trick about their popularity. It is solely because people have become convinced through trial or hearing their neighbors say that they are the best and easiest to take vermifuge ever produced. Nasty, sickening, old-fashioned wormseed syrups won't sell. People demand McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders, and won't have anything else, hence their sales are greater than all the other vermifuges combined. Money refunded to dissatisfied purchasers.

—Bellefonte is jubilant over the assurance of getting another iron furnace which promises to be fully as large and extensive as that of the Bellefonte Iron Company. Messrs. Collins, gentlemen of capital, already purchased eighty-seven acres of land owned by the Thomas estate, which includes Half Moon Hill and other land adjoining, for $25,000 and expect to manufacture iron in less than two months. This is indeed a "bonanza" for Bellefonte and Centre county can soon boast of several manufacturing towns, with Bellefonte at the head.

—The Twelfth Annual Convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Pennsylvania, will be held in Franklin Street M. E. Church, Wilkesbarre, October 13th, 14th and 15th, 1886. Meeting of Executive Committee on Tuesday evening, Oct. 12. Prayer meeting of delegates at same hour. Delegates and visitors will send to Mrs. Ellen M. Watson, 508 Smithfield Street, Pittsburg, by October 1st for orders for Railroad Tickets at reduced rates, specifying the roads on which they must travel. Delegates will be entertained, and it is expected that boarding at reasonable rates can be secured by visitors.

MRS. JOS. D. WEEKS, Rec. Sec'y.
MRS. ELLEN M. WATSON, Cor. Sec'y.

—The Women's H. and F. M. Society's convention, at Bellefonte, which ended last Wednesday evening, was a most pleasant and successful gathering. It was largely attended by the delegates of the several auxiliary societies, and all were royally entertained by the generous and hospitable people of Bellefonte. A lively interest in the mission work of these good women was manifested by visiting ministers who gave valuable advise and encouragement in appropriate addresses. Elaborate decorations and fine music rendered by the organist, Miss Ohnmacht, by the choir, and the sweet soprano singers Miss Brett and Mrs. Faber, greatly helped to the enjoyment of the convention.

For the Journal.

The Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Central Pennsylvania held its thirty-third annual convention at Centre Hall, beginning Wednesday evening, Sept. 29th, and closing Sunday evening, Oct. 3rd inst.

The synodical territory includes the counties of Centre, Clinton, Union, except Lewisburg, Snyder, except Selinsgrove, Mifflin, Juniata and Perry. The extreme points occupied are Duncannon and Philipsburg, from south-east to north-west, and Lock Haven to Blain, Perry county, from north-east to south-west. The aggregate membership is 7776, worshiping in eighty-four churches and served by thirty-six regular pastors. Three candidates, Jacob M. Stoyer, of Aaronsburg, S. G. Dornblaser, of Nittany Valley and A. S. Fichthorn, of Lewistown, were regularly licensed at this convention. Although this synod does not at this time carry a single "D. D." upon its clerical roll, it is the peer of any body of clergymen of equal number in the land—for learning, piety and devoted work in the cause of Christ.

The laity is directly represented by delegates specially elected to each convention, so that the entire body consists of seventy two members. The attendance was unusually full.

On Wednesday evening the President, Rev. J. Keller Miller, of Logansville, preached the opening sermon.

Thursday morning the President read the annual report, covering his official work, noting the building of churches, ministerial changes, etc., during the year, after which the regular election was held, resulting as follows:

President, Rev. A. H. Spangler, Port Royal, Juniata Co.; Secretary, Rev. S. F. Greenhoe, Buffalo X Roads, Union Co.; Treasurer, Rev. W. H. Diven, Salona, Clinton Co.

Other elections were held as follows: DELEGATES TO GENERAL SYNOD, which convenes at Omaha, Neb., May next—Clerical, Revs. W. E. Fisher, W. H. Diven, J. K. Miller and J. A. Earnest; Lay—B. O. Deininger, Wm. Wolf, Dr. J. W. Rhone and Prof. E. U. Aumiller.

Vacancies in the several Boards were filled and the synod's contingent now stands as follows: DIRECTORS OF THEOLIGAL SEMINARY AT GETTYSBURG, Clerical—Revs. S. E. Furst, W. E. Fisher, J. M. Reimensnyder and E. E. Berry; Lay—B. O. Deininger, Wm. Wolf, Joseph Rothrock and John Hertzler. TRUSTEES OF LOYSVILLE ORPHAN HOME, Clerical—Revs. A. H. F. Fisher and F. Aurand; Lay—D McConnell and W. T. Fiches.

During the session a series of able and comprehensive sermons were delivered on special subjects previously assigned, as follows: Missions—Rev. A. K. Felton; Education—Rev. A. H. F. Fisher; Ordination—Rev. J. A. Earnest; Preparatory—Rev. C. Luther McConnell; Communion—Rev. W. E. D. Scott.

Rev. H. W. McKnight, D. D., President of Pennsylvania College, Gettysburg, delivered a stirring address in the interests of the institution of which he is the efficient head.

Rev. J. A. Clutz, of Baltimore, General Secretary of the Gen. Synod's Board of Home Missions, very ably presented the work and needs of that department of church work. Rev. J. C. Zimmerman, Secretary of the Board of Church Extension gave a graphic account of the great and growing wants of the church in the far west, and Rev. P. A. Heilman, recently a member of this synod, gave a very interesting history of the rise and progress of the Women's Mission at Denver, the garden city at the foot of the Rocky Mountains.

Rev. E. J. Wolf, D. D., Prof. of Church History in the Theological Seminary at Gettysburg, was also present and took an active part in the work of synod.

Rev. F. W. Conrad, D. D., Editor of the Lutheran Observer, was also a visitor and made a strong appeal for the continuous and increasing support of the Observer. The veteran editor stated in very appropriate words and with much feeling that he had now given twenty-five of the best years of his life to religeous journalism.

On Sabbath morning the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was celebrated according to the beautiful and impressive ritual of the General Synod. It was a solemn season indeed. The spacious and truly beautiful church was filled to its utmost capacity. First the members of synod and afterwards the vast congregation, composed of all denominations locally represented, joined in celebrating the dying love of a common Saviour. Grand, touching scene—the chosen heralds of the Cross with the entire resident christian community, uniting to make their common profession of faith and fraternity at the altar of God's sanctuary!

On Sunday afternoon the four Sunday Schools of the town united in a children's meeting. The space capacity of the large church was againput to its utmost test. The speakers—Revs. J. M. Reimensnyder, Philip Graif and A. N. Warner, each in his own way, proved themselves masters of the happy faculty of interesting and instructing children. The meeting was a full-sized success.

The interesting business sessions—the able, instructive sermons and addresses—the grand music of a skillfully trained quire—the bracing atmosphere, especially the beautiful sunlight on the holy Sabbath day—and last but not least, the open, generous hospitality of the good people of Centre Hall all combined to make this one of the most delightful conventions in the history of the Synod of Central Pennsylvania.

COBURN.

The public school at this place opens on the 25th inst., with Mr. Finkle as teacher.

Monroe Kreamer has the contract for putting up the new store building next to Vonada's store.

The distillery will commence operations some time next week.

Mrs. W W. Kremer and daughter Gerty who have been spending the last four months in our village left for their western home this (Wednesday) morning.

The meeting in Bellefonte, Wednesday night was indeed a success and the enthusiasm was very great. Your correspondent had the pleasure of a half hour's chat with Gov. Black and found him a plain, simple talker who weighs his words well but speaks right to the point, and we believe the democratic party could not have done any better than to select Chauncey F Black as their standard bearer to lead us on to victory.

SMITH TOWN.

Jack Frost is a regular visitor of late.

Ed says it made a good deal of trouble to get that marriage licence.

Mrs. Rose Jamison and her sister, Miss Kate Keen, were the guests of their brother, John Keen, at this place.

John Harshbarger sold one of his horses and is now trying to buy another.

One of H. E. Duck's horses broke a leg thy other day and in consequence of it had to be killed.

Mrs Weaver and Mrs. Keller, of near Penn Hall, and who are twin sisters, were visiting in our midst on Monday.

Mr. Hubler greatly improved the Smith Town Hill by graveling it. An improvement that was very necessary.

On Sunday a party of young folks, accompanied by John Bright, of Savanah, Ohio, were over to Rebersburg. They report a pleasant time. Four years ago John left here, bound for Ohio and last Thursday he returned safe, and jolly as ever. He intends to spend a few weeks among his friends here and then go West again, even as far as California. JUMBO.

AARONSBURG.

We are having cool frosty mornings.

The front yard of our poor house has been enclosed with a new fence.

Mrs. Dr. Davis from Mifflinburg has taken boarding at Em'l. Cronmiller's.

A heavy piece of iron fell on Frank Weiser's foot last week. Of course Frank had to quit work for a few days.

Ka-Ra-Be, the Arabian medicine left with a few families in our town by the Drs. Russel, of Vineland, N. J., has been used by some with good results.

About every second fellow you ask, "are you going to the show?" will answer—"certainly, to be sure."

We now can boast of a first-class meat market. Fresh beef, pork, veal and sausage every day in the week and Sundays expected. So says Willis the butcher.

Better late than never. Tom Hull of North 2nd street showed us a tomato that measures 18 inches in circumference and weighs about 2 lbs.

Ben Edmunds, living northwest of Boonville (the new northern addition to Aaronsburg) built an addition to his house. Benny means business.

An infant daughter of Geo. Stover, on North 2nd street, died on last Saturday night and was buried in the Lutheran cemetery on Tuesday forenoon following, Rev. Deitzler officiating.

Over 1300 lbs. of fresh meat was sold at the new Goosetown meat market last week. None left for bolognas, and no bones for Boneville. Too bad.

Quite lately one of our preachers was the recipient of a very fine gold watch. Ask the Mrs. who was the giver, and for still further particulars inquire of D. H. Rote, our gentlemanly jeweler, who furnished the watch for the parties. Now then git up, Billy. ANOTHER.

REBERSBURG.

The corn husking season has been initiated by some of our farmers.

Mrs. Guistwite, the wife of George Guistwite is on the sick list.

Prof. A. Bierly is at present soliciting scholars in our town for a class in vocal music. He has already a large number of scholars and still they come. We are glad to see the professor so successful.

Jacob Burkert's sale of personal property on last Saturday was largely attended but the goods were sold very cheap. Abs. Harter, the auctioneer, at times became real disgusted at the exceedingly low bids.

John says, the deer is gone where the woodbine twineth.

Wm. Walker, of this place, threshed 120 bushels of wheat the other day. He raised this crop on four acres of ground making an average of 30 bushels per acre. This makes Bill the champion wheat grower in this section.

Amon Walker bought a bycicle and is making things lively on our streets. Look out for a "header."

Our townsman, Cal. Mallory, has been appointed superintendent of the Spring Mills Creamery. We wish Cal success in his new position.

The Women's H. & F. Missionary Society realized $56.45 from their quilt, which we mentioned last week. They are well satisfied with the good work they have done. SQUIBOB.

MADISONBURG.

Miss Annie Ocker was at home over Sunday.

Jared Hazel has built a new fence in front of his house which greatly improves his home.

Jack Ocker and Helfrich are converting the old foundry dam into a fish pond. They expect to get their fish from the government.

Geo. Rachau and John Grenoble, of Penn Hall, are painting the Yearick school house.

Some of our farmers are husking corn.

Harry Kline, the peddler, has gone to New York and left "old Dick" in John Snafer's care until he returns with his new stock of goods. STILL ANOTHER.

The Father of Queen Victoria in America.

Prince Edward, afterwards Duke of Kent, and the father of Queen Victoria, passed through Burlington, Vt., in Feb. 1793.

He came from Quebec, where he had command of a regiment. His trip through the country was accomplished in carryalls and sleighs; a courier had been sent on to Burlington to prepare for his accommodation. There were then only seven framed houses in the whole village, and but one, that of Phineas Loomis, large enough to receive so numerous a party.

The prince arrived in the afternoon with thirteen carryalls and sleighs, and left the third day before noon. He had with him two aids and two body-guards a lady and a cook. The lady was to go to New York, and the prince provided the sleigh which was to convey her with abundance of fur robes, and placed a large dog at her feet. A little incident occurred on the passing of the prince and the lady from the house to the sleigh which illustrates somewhat the character and personnel of the prince. An awkward but stout young man was standing in the path, not making room readily for the party to advance. Prince Edward advanced, and taking him up bodily, set him on one side in the snow.

At this place, Burlington, he dismissed the teamsters who had brought him from Canada, and engaged five farmers to take him to Boston. It was said by these men that he was a jolly companion, enjoyed the pork and beans, nut-cakes and cheese.

Among the early settlers of the town was Col. Stephen Keyes, a gentleman of the old school, who wore a cocked hat and kept a hotel on Water Street. He proposed to pay his respects to Prince Edward, and with several young men of the village, made a call in the evening. Col. Keyes introduced himself to the prince, and then stated that he had brought with him some young gentlemen of legal and mercantile pursuits, who wished to pay their respects to him. They were severally presented, and the prince respectfully bowed to each. This was apparently the commencement of a pleasant evening's entertainment. But what was their dismay when the prince and his aids very informally and abruptly retired to their own apartments! The Colonel could not brook this, and in unmeasured terms vented his indignation and declared the prince "no gentleman."

Don't Waste Liquid Manure.

The value of liquid manure upon lawns, grass, young grain, cabbages, turnips, spinach and strawberries applied in autumn and to many more crops in spring, is perhaps theoretically understood by many people, but very seldom experimentally demonstrated in actual use. Like a great many other things, it involves a little trouble at the outset. At the East we had a wet season up to the first part of August, at least. How everything has grown! The plant-food has been dissolved, and the plants have taken it in and made use of it in a wonderful manner. A small amount of water carrying a very little manure-water produces a marked effect; in fact, water alone is a great thing, and with a proper cart very easy to apply. Manure-water is easily made. A sunken hogshead in the barnyard, covered with a lot of white oak saplings four or five inches through, will fill up with the first rain and be strong enough to make the crops laugh over an acre or more of land if mixed with plenty of water. The application should not be stronger than one-fourth manure-water to three parts water. Nitrate of soda may be very effectively applied in this way, say one pound to ten gallons of water, or three pounds to the barrel. —American Agriculturist for October.

We invite special attention to our NEW PATENT AUTOMATIC TENSION MACHINES, making precisely the same stitch as the Wilcox & Gibbs, and yet, if not preferred to the Wilcox & Gibbs Automatic Tension Machine, can be returned any time within 30 days and money refunded. But what is more remarkable still, we never knew a woman willing to do her own family sewing on a shuttle machine after having tried our new Patent AUTOMATIC.
Even Shoe Manufacturers find it best suited to their work—its elastic seams are more durable. Truly—Automatic Sewing Machines are fast superseding shuttle machines, and it is no use to deny it. Truth is mighty and does prevail. Shuttle Machines have seen their best days.
